

Look upon it from another angle

Sigfrid Lundberg

stretch and look downwards you might see something new another angle less boring

you must turn your head or you cannot read the text nothing really, sorry

look upwards and stretch you might see something else stop bore us now

this is the time when you must stand on your head or you cannot read at all

you look upon it
just as everyone else
everyone else boring

twohundredthirtyfive
degrees and your perception is lost completely

the view downunder
is elucidating we hope
you have reached it

twohundredseventy
degrees and you have now red eight nonsens haikus